

BRIEF ENCOUNTER

Brief Encounter

Brief Encounter captures a fleeting moment—an impression of connection that appears, lingers, and dissolves. A layered field of blush, rose, ochre, and softened neutrals creates a warm, atmospheric ground, built through washes, overpainted passages, and delicate abrasion.

Gestural marks and translucent veils move across the canvas like fragments of memory, while drips of pigment introduce a sense of gravity and passage. Areas of opacity and transparency shift in balance, allowing forms to emerge and recede without fully resolving. Soft yet expressive, Brief Encounter brings warmth and quiet emotion to an interior—an artwork that reveals itself gently, offering depth, nuance, and a sense of passing time.
