

FALLING INTO TRUTH

Falling Into Truth

Mixed Media on Canvas

Falling Into Truth captures the moment of surrender—when resistance gives way and clarity begins to surface. A layered composition of muted greys, ochre, soft blue, and blush creates a textured ground that feels both constructed and uncovered over time.

Abstract blocks of color anchor the canvas, while gestural marks, drips, and loosely drawn symbols move across the surface with a sense of instinct and release. The interplay between structured forms and spontaneous linework reflects a quiet tension—order giving way to something more honest and unguarded.
