REVERIE HORSE

Reverie Horse
Mixed Media on Canvas

Reverie Horse bends and stretches across the canvas, its form intentionally fragmented, as if caught mid-thought or mid-motion. Drips, overpainted passages, and subtle text elements—reverie repeating like a quiet echo—create a sense of time unfolding within the work. The surface feels worked and reworked, revealing traces of what came before while allowing the present moment to remain fluid.

Linwood's signature language is unmistakable: expressive line, layered texture, and symbolic restraint. The piece balances strength with softness, movement with stillness—capturing not just the image of a horse, but the feeling of one passing through memory or imagination.
